

PC 11 Pietermaritzburg Agency for Christian Social Awareness

(PACSA) Collection 1979-1999: Section 3

PACSA was originally established in January 1979 as an independent Christian organization committed to creating awareness in the local Christian community of the injustices of apartheid. It worked to promote human rights and justice. One of the first issues in which PACSA became involved was that of forced removals in Natal and the foundation of the Association for Rural Advancement (AFRA). PACSA was also involved with the Detainee's Support Committee (DESCOM), the launch of the United Democratic Front (UDF), and helped support ex-Sarmcol workers who had been dismissed. In 1985 PACSA began to support victims of violence in the greater Pietermaritzburg area. This violence escalated into the "Seven Days War" of 25-31 March 1990. PACSA continued with this involvement up to 1999. Several other organizations were also involved with the crisis work, and this work was documented by the Centre for Adult Education, by John Aitchison and Vaughan John.

PACSA was founded by Peter Kerchhoff and his wife Joan and five others who were the original council members: Colin Gardner, James Massey, Bob Clarke, Chris Richmond and Cresswell Mkhize. Later they were joined by Francois Bill, John Aitchison, Graham Lindegger, and others. Monika Wittenberg ran the resource centre and Gay Spiller was the first secretary. Archbishop Denis Hurley gave much support and encouragement to the organization, as did Archbishop Desmond Tutu, as General Secretary of the South African Council of Churches (SACC).

The first donation of PACSA archives to the Alan Paton Centre (APC) was made during the apartheid era by Monika Wittenberg, to protect the files from possible confiscation by the Security Police, who raided PACSA offices on several occasions, and detained Peter Kerchhoff in solitary confinement in 1986. It consists of 11 boxes, containing press cuttings on the ANC, which was unbanned in 1990; detention and Treason Trial files; and DESCOM files, amongst others. The numbering for this section is PC 11/1. PACSA maintained a press cutting service in line with one of its original aims: to be a source of important information for the general public.

The second donation of 41 PACSA Crisis files was made by Joan Kerchhoff before she retired from PACSA in 2005. These files were originally housed in the PACSA Resource Centre. This section deals with crisis incidents arising from political violence in the PMB area. They document crisis incidents from 1985 to 1999. Most of these incidents occurred in 1988, 1989 and 1990, in the build-up to the “Seven Days War” of 25-31 March 1990. The numbering for this section is PC 11/2.

The third donation of PACSA boxes was made by Daniela Gennrich, Director of PACSA, in 2012. This was done when PACSA moved on to dealing with new issues, adopting a new strategy, and changed its focus and its name to the Pietermaritzburg Agency for Community Social Action.

The numbering for this section is PC 11/3 onwards. It contains PACSA origins and founding documents; information on Peter Kerchhoff’s life and work; Annual Reports; Newsletters; AGMs; Council and Executive meetings; Factsheets; and information about much of PACSA’s work from 1978 to 1999.
